

about time I got out of that cookie!	borrow money from pessimists-- they won't expect it back.
if you're reading this, you are not illiterate.	you will read this and think "I could've come up with better fortunes than this!"
the best is yet to come.	every exit is an entrance to new experiences be kind to pigeons. a statue will someday be made of you	starting tomorrow, stop procrastinating.
a foolish man listens to his heart. a wise man listens to cookies.	little and often make much.
you will be hungry again in one hour.	running in circles gets your shoes worn down on one side.
the fortune you seek is in another cookie	in the center of difficulty lies opportunity.
you can't have everything. where would you put it all??	dogs have owners, cats have staff.
plan to be spontaneous tomorrow.	if you eat something, and no one is around to see you eat it, it has no calories.
I cannot help you, for I am just a cookie.	everyone agrees you are the best.
ask your mom.	remember yesterday, but live for today.
you will live a long life and eat many cookies.	your good luck is in effect as of now.
